Dear Stephen

I refer to your Official Information Act request received by Police on 25 July 2013 in which you asked for information about prosecutions for vehicle accidents where pedestrians were killed. As part of your request you asked for

- e) How many infringement notices were issued or prosecutions made for offences by pedestrians? Preferably broken down by the offence.

The number of infringement notices or prosecutions made for offences by pedestrians is in the attached table.

- f) How many infringement notices were issued or prosecutions made for offences by drivers against pedestrians, including the various offences that include failure to give way? Preferably broken down by the offence.

The number of infringement notices or prosecutions made for offences by drivers against pedestrians is in the attached table.

The figures provided in these reports are for proceedings. A proceeding is an action that Police may take for an offence. Clearances of proceedings include (but are not limited to) Prosecution, Youth Aid, or Warning. It is possible for more than one proceeding to relate to a single offence, i.e. where a proceeding is cleared as a prosecution, and the charge is withdrawn and then re-laid. All proceedings cleared as prosecution are included, regardless of the court outcome.

Some more general offences could involve a vehicle offending against a pedestrian, such as driving dangerously causing injury or death. However Police does not hold data relating to pedestrian involvement in such offences in a form that we can report.

Yours sincerely

Inspector Peter McKennie
Acting National Manager Road Policing
