Dear Kelly

Re: Official information request – Graduate Student Employment

I refer to your official information request dated 8 September 2019 asking for the following information.

“Please can you tell me how many graduate research students newly enrolled in 2018 were not either invited to apply for, or directly granted some combination of tutoring or grading work for the University?”

The information you have requested is below.

The University has identified 272 graduate research students newly enrolled in 2018. Of this number, 205 were not employed by the University in any capacity, and 67 were employed by the University. Of those employed by the University, we are unable to provide a specific breakdown of the number employed directly for tutoring or grading (or both), as we do not hold information in this way.

If you wish to discuss this decision with us, please feel free to contact me directly.

Yours sincerely

Duanna Fowler

Director, Office of the Vice-Chancellor
