Tena koutou

With regards to your disposal of international titles, I would be interested in any titles that you have that would be of value to family historians or genealogists.

Particularly published family histories/family biographies, social histories, school or church histories – name rich titles or books with genealogical tables in them.

Many thanks

Theology is covered in the Religion — Overseas Published Collections spreadsheet.

Our definition of the Pacific is Polynesia, including Fiji, but excluding Hawaii. Books published in this area are retained in our New Zealand and Pacific collections.

Books published in Australia can be found in our lists by filtering column D, Publication Place.

Hi

We would be interested in rehoming Catholic books. We maintain a database of more than 1000 people who serve the church in the likely event that we hold many of the books in this area.

Will overseas published books include those from Pacific Islands & Australia?

There is a network of Theological libraries (anztla) in NZ, Australia and the Pacific many of whom could be interested in items made available through this rehoming.

Hello,

I have just heard on RNZ that you are looking for new custodians for books from your overseas collection.

I am a member of the Handweavers and Spinners Guild in Auckland and we have an extensive research library for our members.

Books specifically cover textiles, weaving, dyeing, spinning, knitting, felting, sheep & fibre, textile art, design, and tools.

Most of the books we would be interested in would be in the 600 & 700's.

This is an exciting opportunity to expand our collection and we look forward to hearing from you.

Regards,

Thanks for your response – I'm taking from it overseas authorship is what makes it not relevant to the NZ collections despite his relevance to a NZ community. All good. As I already mentioned below, I am happy to have as many copies you want to dispose of to the Kawerau Library.

I assume this is in response to my question around the title I was a surgeon for the Chinese Reds (see email below). While I will be happy to have the book, I guess my question based on the example below is when does an overseas publication become relevant to a New Zealand collection and are we or you best to host?

Thanks

I have a query regarding the title:

I was a surgeon for the Chinese Reds / by Ernest M. Lippa.

Date 1953

By Lippa, Ernest M.

Publisher London : Harrap, 1953.

Format 240 p. :maps, port. ;21 cm.

I think this title is in your overseas collection. The author, Dr. Lippa moved to Kawerau as our first doctor in 1954 after his time in China and was a highly valued member of the Kawerau community until he passed away in 1976. I have two well-loved copies in our Reference collection but use your copy through interloan for people who want to borrow and read about his time before moving to Kawerau. We are happy to take the title as a borrowable item if you no longer require it but it also raises the question of when does a title become NZ material? For us Dr. Lippa's book is very important to our NZ story and I do get research queries at least once a year about this title by locals and people outside the community. Looking forward to your thoughts?

Subject line: Expression of Interest - Overseas published collections — collection management project

Body:

Good afternoon

On your website, under the Overseas published collections — collection management project, I read:

“We will be seeking expressions of interest for the next phase of reforming the overseas published collection from libraries, government agencies and third-party organisations shortly.”

As we are very interested in the possibility of acquiring some of the material that aligns with our collection policy, I wondered how and when we could go about submitting a formal expression of interest and when.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Kind regards

Dear National Library

LAGANZ (Lesbian & Gay Archives of New Zealand) is interested in the attached list of books from those currently listed on the National Library website.

Some of LAGANZ book collection is listed on the National Library catalogue. We would arrange for the holdings to be changed from WN to ATL/LAGANZ, so there would be no need to delete these item records from the catalogue.

The books can be delivered to 9(2)(a) [redacted] on the 2nd floor of the National Library or I can collect them from you when available.

Overseas Published Collection
National Library WELLINGTON

20 December 2019

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am Curator of the New Zealand Organ Museum Trust, based in Herbert in North Otago. As part of our work we collect books, music, recordings, images etc relating to pipe organs and general music history. We have collected a quantity of redundant books from the University of Canterbury Library, as well as from the private collections of Rev Dr Ross Wards and Bernard Bicknell.

Our recorded music collection includes New Zealand music, pipe organ music from NZ and overseas, and general classical music. Likewise, our published collections include books and music from New Zealand and overseas.

I heard an interview on ConcertFM relating to the Library's redundancy of books from the Overseas Published Collection. We would like to express our interest in acquiring any books, recordings and music relating to the pipe organ, New Zealand music, and general music history.

Please do not hesitate to contact us with any queries. Yours Faithfully,

Subject: [NZ-Libs] National Library: Rehoming our overseas published books - orders close 6 January

The following message is sent from Bill Macnaught, National Librarian: Kia ora koutou,

In October I spoke at the LIANZA Conference on the National Library's role as stewards of Aotearoa's documentary heritage and the importance of preserving the memory of New Zealand and our place in the Pacific.

I reminded attendees that in 2015, following extensive consultation, we updated our Collections Policy to focus on New Zealand and Pacific material because no other library in the world is going to collect and preserve our stories, that's our job.

This was followed by email communication out to the library sector.

The National Library is continuing to look for better homes for some of our overseas published books – which does not include Turnbull Library material.

We are still investing in our Turnbull and print collections, particularly our school's collection. To make way for our growing collection of New Zealand, Maori and Pacific material we need to ensure that our collections and services are managed well for the benefit of all New Zealanders. We value your work, experience and expertise and because we are part of the same network you have been given first option on these overseas published books.

If you haven't yet registered your interest or placed your orders, then you have until the 6 January 2020 to email your requests to opcmanagement@nl.govt.nz.

We will be opening the lists up to community organisations that might benefit from these overseas published books in the New Year. We will begin communicating this phase before Christmas.

Kia ora 9(2)(a) ,

I'm attaching my "order" – everything highlighted in green is something I think might have a place in my collection. However I am not expecting to receive this full amount; if my colleagues have indicated interest in the same titles, I am happy to give way to them. And for example I don't need 10+ dictionaries of quotations, it's just that mine has recently gone AWOL and I keep getting requests for it, so I thought, seeing as your collection had some to spare, I could take a couple off your hands.

I made my selections based on publication year and title. I'm not really interested in very academic materials, I tried to eliminate "literature reviews" and so on, but basically, for my collection, the more pictorial, mainstream, accessible, the better.

Please let me know if there's any further information you require from me. And no hurry, I already have plenty in my "to be catalogued" pile as it is. It's just that I can't ever resist free books. I'm sure you understand!

Thanks for the opportunity,

Good morning,

I received an email from a colleague letting me know that I could email you to register my interest in rehoming part of your overseas published collection.

I have looked through the list and please find attached my wish list for the 9(2)(g) [redacted] Prison Library.

Could you please let me know if there is a cost to this or if I have selected too many ☺

Kind regards

Hi

I am hoping you can forward this to the person who is rehoming the 600,000 books. The email on the media release opcmanagement@dia.govt.nz did not work

Thanks

9(2) Hi

Just heard the interview of your rehoming books on the internet and the 9(2)(g)(ii) [redacted] would like to register their interest in getting some books. We have had no identified librarian but I have taken over the responsibility as I believe the prisoners need access to literature. Their interest has increased lots since I have been promoting it. Our major problem is with no past librarian we have not had new (used even) books for a long time so many prisoners have read all we have. Any you could provide would enhance their education and occupy them in a good way.

Thanks
