Dear Alex

REQUEST FOR INFORMATION

Thank you for your email dated 10 November 2021 requesting the Police form titled 'Consent to Assume Online Internet Identity'.

Firstly, I sincerely apologise for the delay in composing this response and returning it to you. This has resulted through a technical error, which is now being addressed to prevent this occurring in future.

I have considered your request in accordance with the Official Information Act 1982. I have attached the current form available for Police staff to use to this request.

Yours sincerely

Stuart Mills

Police National Headquarters.

CONSENT TO ASSUME ONLINE INTERNET IDENTITY

I, _____, hereby voluntarily authorise police officers from the New Zealand Police Service to take over control of and use my internet “online identities.” These internet online identities and accounts include the following screen name(s), nick name(s), and/or e-mail addresses, as well as the passwords associated with these accounts:

ACCOUNT NAME	PROGRAM	PASSWORD
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____
_____	_____	_____

I consent to the use of my online identity and accounts for any purpose relating to an official investigation by the New Zealand Police Service, including (but not limited to) sending and receiving e-mail or conducting any other electronic communications, accessing stored information, and using and disclosing such communications or information. I understand and acknowledge that by signing the consent form, I relinquish all present and future claims to the use of these accounts. I understand that a police officer from the New Zealand Police Service will change the password(s) to these accounts so that I will no longer have access.

I have been advised that I can consult a lawyer before deciding whether or not to give consent.

I give this consent voluntarily, without threats, promises or inducements from any member of the New Zealand Police.
