Ref: 9(2)(a)

Dear Dr DRAPER,

Please find enclosed your Police Certificate(s), which states one of the following:

NO TRACE	You do not have any conviction, cautions, final warnings or reprimands
NO LIVE TRACE	You have a criminal record, however this information does not appear on the certificate because it has been stepped down.*
FURTHER INFORMATION STEPPED DOWN	You have a criminal record, however only relevant criminal record information appears on the certificate because some convictions have been stepped down.*
SUMMARY OF CONVICTIONS	You have a criminal record and all your convictions are shown on your certificate because none of them is subject to step-down.

*Step down means that conviction information is on police records, however it is no longer disclosed via the Police Certificate process. Please refer to the ACPO Retention Guidelines on our website for further details. It is your responsibility to declare conviction information in accordance with your visa application.

If your certificate contains an 'impending prosecution' or 'under investigation', you are currently being investigated in relation to a criminal offence for which no outcome has yet been recorded. You should be aware that the protections afforded by the Human Rights Act 1988 may not apply in other countries. You are advised to research any likely implications of visiting a country where offences on the certificate(s) may place you at risk.

ACRO accepts no liability should the information contained therein be misused by any party, or the use of the certificate(s), or information contained therein, results in any adverse implications for the person named on the certificate(s). If you have any questions, further advice is available on our website or from our Customer Services team via the contact details below.

Yours sincerely,
