Does the Prioritisation Exercise identify front-line vs back-office?

We have been asked about how boundaries of non-frontline services been decided, and which work areas were subject to review?

We have not applied a specific “front-line” categorisation of every role. LT identified the areas of business activity they assessed Crown Law could potentially stop or scale back in the short term without breaching legislation, cabinet direction, or other government commitment; and without causing significant short-term disruption to Crown Law’s ability to operate.
