NZ Police:
During the evening of 12 October, a member of the public called Police around what was perceived to be criminal behaviour (covering signs) at a Ministers office. On Police attendance it was established this was legitimate behaviour in line with covering signage as per EC Rules. Police note that the hypervigilance by the public around legitimate (or otherwise) election activities may result in an increased number of calls for service.
NEMA (Daily Intelligence Briefing attached):

	Ten Overseas Voting Places now closed.
	<ul> <li>Overseas Votes Issued, 82,618 and Overseas Votes Received, 53,609.</li> </ul>
	<ul> <li>Expecting a significant increase in uploads on Friday and Saturday as the trend is very similar to GE2020.</li> </ul>
	Auckland North Region
	<ul> <li>All Voting Places were busy today, increasing Election Day staffing at our voting places to deal with the rush.</li> </ul>
	<ul> <li>Albany Mall has received over 15,500 votes with two days to go. There are concerns about managing queues at the mall. Working with Albany Mall staff to manage the situation.</li> </ul>
	<ul> <li>The Whangaruru School will close tomorrow due to security issues. Communications will go out regarding the closure, and information on the next closest location of voting place.</li> </ul>
	Auckland South Region
	<ul> <li>Cleaner found a person in Howick Library after close of voting, the cupboard holding the materials was found to be unlocked but all materials have been accounted for, no interference detected.</li> </ul>
	Voter collapsed in Royal Oak voting place. Temporarily closed voting place until ambulance arrived.
	Port Waikato has four voting places with two-people only. Not expected to have high volumes of votes.
	A number of staff are dropping out, light on back-up staff.
	COVID-19 case in Pakuranga headquarters (HQ). The HQ support person was sent home, testing other staff.

- Issue with long queues at Sylvia Park Mall, 45 minute wait to vote. Looking at adding more staff but low on back-up staff.
- Options to address this include getting Voter Assistants (VA) to inform people about wait times, suggest a quieter time to return, and / or redirect them to next closest voting place.

Central North Island Region

- National Office contingency workforce on its way to East Coast. Contingency plan in place to move staff around the electorate if needed. Concerned with voting place manager shortfalls.
- Electorates are reporting staff withdrawals, are using on-call staff, looking to transfer staff between electorates to fill vacancies.

Lower North Island Region

- An issuing point stamp was stolen yesterday from the Mobile Pop-up voting location in Castlepoint. Ballot papers are all accounted for. Classified as minor risk.
- International visitors are visiting voting places.
- Providing support to newer Electorate Managers to prepare for Election Day.

South Island Region

- Watching the weather with severe wind warnings in Canterbury area. Sending out messages to secure voting signage. Heavy rain in Westland, Haast in particular, will impact return of ballot papers to HQ, may require a change in route.
- Adventure Bike Park in Christchurch is closing due to the wind, but the voting place remains open. There is a risk the whole site will close if weather worsens.
- A school had a water leak and had to be shut temporarily but expecting it to be opened by tomorrow.
- Experiencing issues with high staff turnover and COVID-19. Moving the contingency workforce around to fill the most urgent gaps.
- 9 confirmed scrutineers currently for the early count, across the 16 electorates. Only 2 currently confirmed for the official count.
- Staff could not get back after trying to collect votes from Stewart Island due to the weather. Secured the materials with the local Police. Depending on the weather condition, this may be pushed out until Monday for collection.

Weather and Climate

Accurate from MetService as at 1000hrs today.

Current Weather

A low over the Tasman Sea is expected to move east across the South Island during the weekend. Very strong winds and heavy rain associated with this low should affect several areas of the South Island and southern North Island, and Warnings and Watches are in place.

An orange heavy rain warning is in force for the Headwaters of the Canterbury lakes and rivers south of Arthur's Pass. From 0200hrs tomorrow to 1400hrs tomorrow where 120 to 140mm of rain is expected near the divide and 60 to 90mm of rain within 15km east of the divide with peak rates of 15 to 20mm/h. Freezing level about 2000 metres, lowering to 1500 metres during this period. Further heavy rain is likely on Sunday.

An orange heavy rain warning is in force for Westland south of Otira, From 0100hrs tomorrow to 1400hrs tomorrow, 120 to 150mm of rain about the ranges with 50 to 70mm near the coast, especially south of Harihari. Peak rates of 15 to 20mm/h. Further heavy rain is likely on Sunday.

A strong wind warning is in place for Wellington and Wairarapa south of Carterton. From 0800hrs tomorrow to 1800hrs tomorrow. Severe gale northwesterlies gusting 120km/h in exposed places.

Prepared by the NEMA Monitoring, Alerting and Reporting Centre to provide awareness that supports informed decision making. Any questions, comments or contributions should be addressed to: mar@nema.govt.nz.

UNCLASSIFIED

A strong wind warning is in place for Marlborough. From 0300hrs tomorrow to 1700hrs tomorrow. Severe gale northwesterlies gusting 120km/h in exposed places, especially about the Kaikoura Coast and ranges.

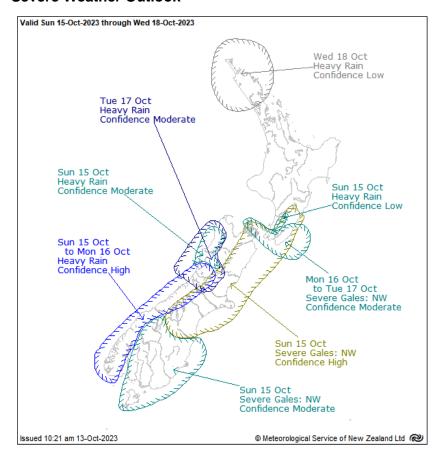

A strong wind warning is in place for Canterbury High Country. From 2100hrs tonight to 1600hrs tomorrow. Severe gale northwesterlies with damaging gusts of 140km/h in exposed places.

A strong wind warning is in place for Canterbury Plains and Christchurch including Banks Peninsula. From 0600hrs tomorrow to 1600hrs tomorrow. Severe gale northwesterlies with damaging gusts of 130km/h in exposed places.

Heavy rain watches and strong wind watches are also in place for multiple regions of New Zealand.

Severe Weather Outlook

A strong west to northwest flow with embedded fronts covers New Zealand till Wednesday. The fronts may bring heavy rain to the west of the South Island and the Southern Alps. Gales are likely over many South Island areas and the far south of the North Island.

On Sunday there is high confidence that rainfall amounts will reach warning criteria in Fiordland, Westland and the adjacent headwaters of Canterbury and moderate confidence in warning amounts of rain in Buller. There is high confidence that northwest winds will reach severe gale about exposed parts of Canterbury, Marlborough, Wellington and Wairarapa including the Tararua District.

On Monday there is high confidence that rainfall amounts will reach warning criteria in Fiordland and Westland. There is moderate confidence in severe northwest gales about exposed parts of the Marlborough Sounds, Wellington and Wairarapa south of the Tararua District.

Polling day wet and windy

If you plan to stay dry while voting, it may pay to cast your vote before election day this year. For much of the southern regions, the weather is forecast to be very wet and very windy on Saturday. Otago Daily Times

Niwa outlook: What is NZ's risk of tropical cyclones this season?

New Zealand's coming El Niño summer might be likely to parch the East Coast, soak the southwest and bring bothersome, blustery westerlies everywhere – but it at least comes with a lower risk of tropical cyclones.
