Good morning Matt

I have an apology to make. The application period is still open so I can't give any further information on the selection workshop for the Christchurch West Melton Zone committee yet, but I did give you the wrong date for it. The workshop will be held in the evening of 30 October not 2 November.

My sincere apology for the error.

Best wishes

Philippa

Good afternoon Matt

Thank you for your application to become a community member of the Christchurch West Melton Zone Committee. Your interest is much appreciated and your application will be forwarded to the selection panel.

The next stage in the selection process is that shortlisted candidates will be invited to a workshop in which they will meet with each other and the panel, and have an opportunity to make a short presentation and discuss water management issues. The final selection will be made immediately after that workshop. The Christchurch West Melton workshop is scheduled for the evening of 2 November (tbc).

You will be given further information about this once the selection team have drawn up their shortlists and details finalised.

Best wishes

Philippa

Please describe why you are interested in becoming a member of the water committee.	Why is a great question, to be part of governing a sustainable water and ecosystem, now and in the future
Please list the relevant skills, experience and area of interest that you would bring to the committee, and how that will complement the skills and areas of interest of those members whose membership of the committee continues.	I have a mechanical engineering certificate, 20 years in the process engineering industry, a masters in business degree and significant project management experience. I am also now working with council for the asset management shared service group. I am also a director of my own company and have governance experience and knowledge from this.
What is the nature of your connection to Canterbury or a particular zone? Describe your special relationship (if any) with the area.	I love kayaking and scuba diving, I am a certified scuba diving instructor and know first hand how the water and ecosystem has a connection with life over most living things
Please provide information regarding your experience of working within collaborative processes involving people with widely different views. Describe the project and your role. (The projects do not need to be related to water management).	As part of my project management experience, I have had to gain buy in from operation staff, residents and project staff, at times this can be ambiguous and hard to define the main value to all stakeholders
Please provide information regarding your experience of engaging with communities. Describe the project, who you engaged, and your role. (The projects do not need to be related to water management).	As part of a new dairy factory in Otago, numerous meetings and discussion were held to canvas the local community with respect to resource consent. I was engaged by the project management company and i was the construction site manager
Please provide information regarding your experience of projects or situations that involved technically-complex information and/or involved many different parties. Describe the project and your role. (The projects do not need to be related to water management).	Multiple projects (programme) of works for dairy companies both in Australia and NZ

Please list any organisations or groups which you belong to or have an association with that are relevant to your application. List the organisation/group and your role. Highlight any organisations/communities that have indicated they would provide a “community of support” for you as a committee member.

I am the national mentoring programme manager for the project management institute

Please list any potential interests or conflicts of interest you may have either directly or indirectly if you were to be appointed to the water committee.

Working in council may be a potential COI, but I do not work in the water space as part of my role

Please upload a short Curriculum Vitae with information of your experience and background.
